IX. MEMBERSHIP

ii. Gender	Men
Note	The names recorded and the grammar suggest male membership.
iv. Status	The man to whom the association dedicated a statue (whose name is lost in lacuna and whose patronymic Ἀσκληπιάδου, Asklepiadou is only preserved in l. 1) was a benefactor. He bore also the aulic title of syngenes and he was involved in the Ptolemaic administration as dioiketes . On the man and his possible identification and family, cf. Mooren 1975: no. 0170, 00277 and Moren 1977: 155-156 (with bibliography).
vi. Proper names and physical features οὐκ Ἀσκληπιάδου τὸν συγγενῆ καὶ διοικητῆν (ll. 1-2)

X. ACTIVITIES

iii. Worship	The expression [μεγ]αλομερείας ἣς ἔχων διατε[λεῖ] πρὸς τῷ θεῷ, megalomereias hes echon diatelei pros to theion (ll. 4-5) seems to suggest that the association and its members (or at least one of them) performed their devotion to Aphrodite in a tangible way. However it is difficult to say in what ways exactly or whether the association organised proper celebrations for the goddess. The local epithet of Aphrodite Lamres is so far otherwise unknown and of difficult interpretation: cf. Fraser 1972: I 198, II 333 n. 58.
Deities worshipped	Aphrodite (?)

Note

The terminology used (synodos) and the dealings in which the group was involved make it certain that we have here a private association.
