VI. BUILT AND VISUAL SPACE

ii. References to buildings/objects en amphoterois tois gymnasiois implies that there were two gymnasia in the town. The existence of two gymnasia in Aigina is apparently attested in a fragmentary honorary decree (IG IV<sup>2</sup>.2 752, 1. 4: [– ἐν ἀμφοτέρ]οις τοῖς γυμνασ[ίοις – – –], [– en amphoter]ois tois gymnas[iois – – –]).

X. ACTIVITIES

iv. Honours/Other activities The association appears on two gravestones and thus confers funerary honours to the deceased.

XI INTERACTION

i. Local interaction IG IV<sup>2</sup>.2 971 which is better preserved, the association is mentioned alongside the boule and the demos.

XII. NOTES

iii. Bibliography Kontoleon, A.E. (1902), 'Inscriptions de la Grèce d'Europe', REG 15: 132-43.

XIII. EVALUATION

i. Private association Possible

Note Although "those who anoint themselves with oil" in the two gymnasia of Aigina, give the impression of a loose collectivity, the fact that they appear in two funerary inscriptions as well as the fact that the aleiphomenoi – without closer definition – are attested in a further Aiginetan inscription (IG IV<sup>2</sup>.2 751), do not exclude the possibility that they had some organization as a private corporation.
