i.b. Document(s) typology & language/script	Greek honorific inscription for an association's benefactor, who happened to be a former kosmetes .
i.c. Physical format(s)	Statue base.

VII. ORGANIZATION

ii. Leadership	προστάτης, prostates (l. 2). The name of the prostates is lost in lacuna. Cf. VII.iii 'Officials'.
iv. Officials	[ἱερε]ύς, [ hiere ]us (l. 3). The man holding this office is called Herakleitos. Given the lacuna in the passage it may not be entirely excluded that the man held both the office of prostates and of hiereus (cf. PP no. 4356). However, the space in lacuna seems to allow the presence of a different proper name for the prostates .

IX. MEMBERSHIP

i. Number	The association gathered (at least originally) 148 people (l. 2) and the figure was incorporated into the association's name. It is not certain whether the number of members remained fixed throughout the association's life.
ii. Gender	Men
Note	Given the military nature of the association the members had to be men.
iii. Age	Adults
Note	Since the members were involved in the army (and also with positions of prestige and responsibility) they had to be adults.
iv. Status	The members belonged to the army background and held positions of importance within the military hierarchy and the court. Some of them bore aulic titles of protoi philoi of the King.
vi. Proper names and physical features	Ἡράκλειτος ἱερεύς

X. ACTIVITIES

iv. Honours/Other activities	The association honoured with a statue someone (whose name is lost in lacuna) who had been acting as benefactor towards them and happened to have served as kosmetes (whether at Alexandria or locally in the Arsinoite nome is not known).

XI. INTERACTION

i. Local interaction

The fact that the benefactor honoured by the association was a former kosmetes may point towards a link of this military association with the gymnasium. This would not be surprising.

XIII. EVALUATION

i. Private association

Certain

Note

Although the term synodos is restored in lacuna (l. 1), the presence of a prostates, a hiereus, the typology of the inscription and the parallel of BGU IV 1190 (CAPInv. 302) leave no room for doubts about this being a private association.
