XII. NOTES

i. Comments

8 names have been preserved; all are introduced with $M(v\eta\sigma\theta\hat{\eta})$, M(nesthei). Cumont 1926: 396 thinks that these were pilgrims who commemorated their visit. Milik 1972: 123 argues that there were originally 10 names, divided into 5 free persons, one freedman and 4 slaves (without patronymic, hence 10 instead of 8 names). "On obtient ainsi un thiase de dix personnes". This is obviously speculative.

i. Private association	Possible
Note	The mnesthe -inscriptions have been linked to associations several times, but there is no way to know whether or not a permanent organizational structure united these names on the wall.
