i.a. Source type(s)	Epigraphic source(s) i.b. Document(s) typology & language/script	A Greek funerary inscription
i.c. Physical format(s)	Uncrowned stele with inscribed panel and a low relief of a ship beneath it.
ii. Source(s) provenance	Found in the area of the Galerian complex (i.e. outside the city walls at the time of the erection of the monument).

VII. ORGANIZATION

ii. Leadership	The doumos was led by an ἀρχισυνάγωγος, archisynagogos (ll. 3-4).
Eponymous office	As all officials mentioned in this inscription, the archisynagogos is recorded in the genitive, as in a dating formula.
iv. Officials	A γραμματεύς, grammateus (ll. 7-8) (secretary), and an ἐξεταστής, exetastes (l. 9) (auditor), are mentioned alongside the archisynagogos (IG X.2.1 Suppl. 1354); all of the above jointly served as ἐπιμεληταί, epimeletai (l. 12) for the erection of the monument.
Eponymous officials	All officials mentioned in this inscription are recorded in the genitive, as in a dating formula.
ix. Privileges	As so often in the context of ancient associations, the doumos paid for the funerary monument of its members.

IX. MEMBERSHIP

ii. Gender	Men
Note	All officials, as well as the deceased, are men.
iv. Status	Two of the officials, the archisynagogos and the grammateus, had Roman citizenship; their relatively rare nomina may point to an Italian origin. The deceased was a foreigner (citizen of Amastris in Pontos) who resided in Thessalonike. The relief portraying a ship, the fact that the deceased died abroad, the foreign origins of the deceased, and even the name of the deity in the group's name make clear that the association most probably consisted of members professionally involved in long-distance trade (see in detail Voutiras 1992; cf. Bounegru 2007).

XII. NOTES

i. Comments	The group has Aphrodite Epiteuxidia in its nomenclature (on the nature of the deity -protector of sea voyages- see Voutiras 1992; on the cult of Aphrodite in Thessaloniki in general, cf. Voutiras 1999).
iii. Bibliography	Bounegru, O. (2007), 'Oikos ton naukleron. The Shipowners Organisation in the Pontic and Aegean Area', in Acta XII Congressus Internationalis Epigraphiae Graecae et Latina. XIII. EVALUATION

i. Private association	Certain
Note	A distinctive name, a possible clubhouse, officials and the very probable professional nature of the group are all clear signs of a private association.
