| iv. Officials     | The presence of hiereus in genitive plural (ἱερέων, hiereon , ll. 3-5), followed by what seems to be traces of personal names, may refer to officials of the group. |

X. ACTIVITIES

| iii. Worship       | The altar dedicated to Zeus Pappoos or Patroos by the syngeneis following the instructions received by the god (ll. 2-3: κατὰ ἐπιταγὴν, kata epitagen ) suggests that the group of relatives performed cultic activities addressed to that deity. The dedication possibly followed or anticipated a benefaction perceived to have been provided by the god. |
| Deities worshipped | Zeus Pappoos or Patroos   |

XII. NOTES

- |                   |  |
|-------------------|--|
| i. Comments       | The dedication was addressed to Διὶ Παππώφ (Dii Pappooi, l. 2) but S. Şahin (in I.Iznik 1513, p. 289b) thinks that the correct reading may have been Διὶ Πατρώφ, Dii Patrooi .If the syngeneis constituted a formally established group, the cost of the altar may indicate the existence of a common treasury. However, there is no clear proof for that. The cost may have been covered from ad hoc contributions paid by the members of the group. |

XIII. EVALUATION

- |                        |   |
|------------------------|---|
| i. Private association | Possible  |
| Note                   | On associations defined as syngeneia or with other correlated terms, see Poland 1909: 88. The dedication of the altar suggests lasting cultic activities on the part of the syngeneis . However, it cannot be established with certainty whether this term in our inscription corresponded to an organized association or was used to denote a simple group of relatives which dedicated the altar. |
