VI. BUILT AND VISUAL SPACE

i. Archaeological remains	It has often been thought that the ‘Grotto of the Priests’ in the sanctuary of Apollo, SW of the temple, was the meeting place of the former priests of Apollo, but the discovery of a relief depicting Mithra slaughtering the lion may indicate a mithraeum instead (Bonacasa and Ensoli 2000, 124). However, the identification with a cult place for Mithra remains uncertain. Nothing really proves that the cave was a place where the priests of Apollo were meeting or dining, even though several graffiti with priest's names are inscribed on the pilasters of the grotto (Wright 1957).
ii. References to buildings/objects	τὸ θυρώματον, to thyromaton (Oliverio, Pugliese Carratelli and Morelli 1961-1962: no. 120, l. 6) ὁ τρύφακτος, ho tryphaktos (Oliverio, Pugliese Carratelli and Morelli 1961-1962: no. 120, l. 7)

VII. ORGANIZATION

iii. Members	οἱ ἱαραπευκότες, hoi hiarateukotes (Oliverio, Pugliese Carratelli and Morelli 1961-1962: no. 120, l. 3)
vi. Laws and rules	Only former priests of Apollo could become members. Selected benefactors could also become members without having been priests before, like Barkaios son of Theuchrestos (SEG 9: 4, l. 32-33: ἐπικλαρόν τε [αὐτὸν ἐς τὸ]ς ἱαρεῖς τῶι Ἀπόλλωνος, epiklaron te [auton es to]s hiares toi Apollonos , cf. Robert 1939).
ix. Privileges	According to Ath. XII 549e, it appears that the acting priest of Apollo invited its fellow predecessors to a banquet every year (king Ptolemy Apion inviting the former priests to a banquet).

VIII. PROPERTY AND POSSESSIONS

i. Treasury/Funds	οἱ τῷ Ἀπόλλωνος πρόσοδοι, hoi to Apollonos prosodoi (SEG 9: 75, 96, 101)
iii. Income	SEG 9: 75, 96 and 101 (dating from the first century BC until the beginning of the second century AD) show the priests of Apollo managing the revenues of the god. If these inscriptions really refer to the same association of the former priests of Apollo, it shows that they retrieved the revenues of the sacred lands of Apollo, which were handled until the second century BC by the damiourgoi . Basically, the priests were renting the sacred lands to farmers who paid in return a usage fee of an amount regulated by production and fixed prices.

IX. MEMBERSHIP

ii. Gender	Men
Note	Restricted to the former priests of Apollo, who were all males.
iii. Age	Elders
Note	According the diagramma of Ptolemy I (SEG 9: 1, ll. 24-25), someone could become priest of Apollo only when he reached 50 years of age. Therefore, the association of the former priests included only men over 50.
iv. Status	Citizens of the highest social status.

X. ACTIVITIES

ii. Meetings and events	Yearly banquet (Ath. XII 549e).
iii. Worship	The association worshipped the god Apollo, although the revenues of the sacred land helped with the cult of other deities (Iatro and Iasoi in SEG 9: 75; Apollo and Artemis in SEG 9: 101).
Deities worshipped	Apollo
iv. Honours/Other activities	Dedications of buildings (Oliverio, Pugliese Carratelli and Morelli 1961-1962: no. 120)

XI. INTERACTION

i. Local interaction	Joint activity with οἱ χρυσοφορέντες, hoi chrysophorentes ( CAPInv. 1268 , in the dedication of the doors and the fence of an unknown building (Oliverio, Pugliese Carratelli and Morelli 1961-1962: no. 120).

XII. NOTES

i. Comments	The group of the former priests of Apollo is only mentioned per se in Oliverio, Pugliese Carratelli and Morelli 1961-1962: no. 120. However, several other inscriptions refer to the “priests” making this and that dedication, using the revenues of Apollo (e. g. SEG 9: 75, 96, 101). This may also refer to the collegium of the former priests of Apollo. The former priest of Apollo are also mentioned in Ath. XII 549e. As these sources may only refer to the association indirectly, they have not been included in section V: Sources.

XIII. EVALUATION

i. Private association	Certain
Note	The collegium has members, rules, activities, funds and income, joint activities with other associations, and maybe a meeting place, making it an association. It may have been private at the beginning and then have extended its prerogatives to the public sphere when it began to manage the sacred funds.
