--------------------------	-----------

VIII. PROPERTY AND POSSESSIONS

i. Treasury/Funds	The association must have funds to be able to erect honorific inscriptions.

X. ACTIVITIES

iv. Honours/Other activities	The association honours M. Gaios Likinios Rouphinos, vir clarissimus, consular, friend of the emperor, founder and benefactor (κτίστην καὶ εὐεργέτην, ktistes kai euergetes, ll. 4-5) of the fatherland. The same person is honoured by the gardeners of Thyateira (Dittmann-Schöne III.1.16).

XI. INTERACTION

i. Local interaction	Since the association erects an honorific inscription for a founder and euergetes of the fatherland, it is presumable that it has interaction with the city. On the importance of honorific inscriptions set up by private associations in order to commemorate the relationships that they maintained with the leading members of society cf. van Nijf 1997: 73f.

XII. NOTES

i. Comments	This inscription is one of the cases where there is no concrete benefaction by the honorand to the association, and may be explained just as a way for the association to show its relationship with the leading members of the city. Cf. van Nijf, op. cit.
