ii. Realty	The koinon Theoxeniaston together with two individuals owned a house and lands in Hiakinthos, known as Sosibieia. They bought the house and lands (together with Thespheus and Eubios) from Euthygenes. They sold the house and lands (together with Thespheus and Aristonax) to Artymachos, from whom they subsequently (again together with Thespheus and Aristonax) bought the lands back (without mention of the house).

XI. INTERACTION

i. Local interaction	The koinon Theoxeniaston is involved in the buying and selling of property together with individuals from various phylai on Tenos: Thespheus (son of Thespheus; from the city phyle), Aristonax (son of Aristolochos; from the phyle of Thestieis), and a certain Eubios. They initially bought the property from a certain Euthygenes. They subsequently sold it to, but then bought (part of) it back from, Artymachos (son of Aristarchos; from the phyle of Herakleidai). Manto (daughter of Demokrines; from the city phyle) agreed upon the sale together with Artymachos, her kyrios . The prateres (guarantors) were Demokrines (son of Demonikos; from the city phyle), Demonikos, and Theophron (son of Demonikos; from the city phyle).

XII. NOTES

i. Comments	Older eds. (following Newton in GIBM II 377) read Σωσηρία, Soserieia rather than Σωσιβία, Sosibieia (IG XII.5 872, l. 115; 117). The buying and selling in which the koinon Theoxeniaston is involved takes place in the month Bouphonion. For a discussion of some of the complexities arising from the relevant sections of the register (XLIV and XLV), see Étienne 1990: 57, ns. 26-7. There are similar attestations of associations elsewhere in the text: IG XII.5 872, ll. 24-5 (CAPInv. 867), l. 60 (CAPInv. 864), l. 76 (CAPInv. 865).

XIII. EVALUATION

i. Private association	Probable
Note	The use of the term koinon combined with the format of the name of the group (ending in -stai) and their involvement in the buying and selling of real estate certainly indicate an association; whether it was 'private' is difficult to establish. Cf. Étienne 1990: 42, n. 21.
