| iii. Members  | Τεμενεῖται, Temeneitai  |
|---------------|---|
| iv. Officials | χρυσονόμος, chrysonomosγραμματεύς, grammateus   |
|               | The chrysonomos was the treasurer, the grammateus the secretary of the association. Cf. Herrmann 1980: 226-227 with n. 9. |

VIII. PROPERTY AND POSSESSIONS

| i. Treasury/Funds | Since the chrysonomos was the treasurer of the association, it must have had some kind of treasury. |
|-------------------|--|

| ii.  | Meetings and events      | The list of the members is styled as the record of a meeting (οἴδε συνήχθησαν Τεμενῖται, hoide synechthesan Temenitai). This formula suggests a meeting in the form of a banquet (Herrmann, Milet VI.2: p. 93 with reference to Ph. Gauthier, BE 1991, 426). |
|------|--------------------------|--|
| iii. | Worship                  | Both the designation of the members as Temenitai and the gods listed in its name demonstrate the association's religious character.   |
|      | Deities worshipped       | Apollon DidymeusDemeter Karpophoros  |
| iv.  | Honours/Other activities | Since the fragmentary inscription mentions a tomb ( $\mu\nu\eta\mu\epsilon\hat{i}o\nu$ , $\textit{mnemeion}$ ), the association was likely involved in a funerary cult.  |
|      |                          | The provenance of the inscription from a necropolis suggests that the association was also involved in funerary activities, though nothing in the inscription itself attests to that.  |

| i.  | Comments       | On groups of temenizontes, Temenitai in Miletus in general cf. CAPInv. 998. |
|-----|----------------|---|
| iii | . Bibliography | Herrmann, P. (1980), 'Urkunden milesischer Temenitai', MDAI(I) 30: 223-239. |

i. Private association Note Certain The religious character and the funerary cult of the association makes it a private association.
